A new experimental album available on soundcloud is the Gardener and the Wild Vines, produced by Tensai Koemakura and coming from the band's previous album The Wild Vine. The Gardener and the Wild Vines features eight new tracks, but also includes four older songs from The Gardener and the Wild Vines. The stories of the albums two older albums, The Gardener and the Wild Vines and The Herbalist and the Ghostly Vine, combine in the story of the new album, The Gardener and the Wild Vines. The Gardener and the Wild Vines Story: The strange and beautiful plant, the Wild Vine, has a mind of its own. What is it thinking about? What does it want to do? If we question the vines, they become angry and attack us. On the other hand, if we are the vines' friends and look after them, they will eat the sun, and...well, we'll tell you. You see, this is no ordinary tale of a garden filled with jealous and angry vines. This is the tale of a world, inhabited by both man and vine, that is being transformed into a place of darkness and death. The Gardener and the Wild Vines: An ancient and mysterious book has been found in an old castle, among papers of the wisest man of the time. But beware, for the owner of the castle has an interest in the book. But wait a moment: how can the owner of the castle have the same interest in the book, when the book is in the castle? Who is the owner of the castle, then? Why, it is the mysterious gardener, of course! The Gardener and the Wild Vines: The gardener has found a way to open the door to the supernatural world, and it is now his duty to protect the garden. But who is this strange gardener, and what is his personal relationship with the vines, while they were fighting so desperately to survive? The Gardener and the Wild Vines: Very soon, the mystical vines will disappear from the garden, because the gardener did not save them...and the gardener will go to the other world with the book, leaving the garden to its fate. So, what do you say, dear reader? Are you ready for a tale of how a gardener fell in love with a vine, and a

Fantastic Contraption is a puzzle game in which you have to make contraptions to solve unique puzzles and also complete levels. The basic mechanics are straightforward: you use mechanical parts to build a contraption. Some parts can be placed anywhere on the contraption and will carry the contraption along their length, such as legs. Some parts, however, can only be placed on a track and must be connected in a specific way, such as pipes for transportation. Fantastic Contraption comes with more than 100 parts that are placed onto the contraption with the use of a set of over 100 mechanical tools. There are also hundreds of unique contraptions that can be built to solve puzzles and complete levels. For people who love logical challenges and creative exploration, Fantastic Contraption can be highly rewarding, whether for hours or days. Features INFINITE RACE MODES - Fantastic Contraption provides you with a vast array of tools to engage in creative contraptions, and Infinite Race Mode allows you to explore your contraptions from the very beginning of the game. INDIVIDUAL AND TEAM CROSS-PLATFORM GAMEPLAY - Fantastic Contraption can be played in two different modes on a single screen, either individually or as a team of two. You can choose whether to compete with friends online, or with computer-controlled opponents. UNLIMITED RACING - Whether you're racing alone, in a team of two, or with a computer-controlled opponent, the goal is the same: finish first. With over 100 new tracks, and many more in the pipeline, you'll never run out of racing tracks for your contraptions. REPLAY VALUE - There are several modes that let you continue to play Fantastic Contraption that you haven't finished yet. When you complete a puzzle, the timer will stop ticking, but your contraption is still playable. You can also save and resume at any point to explore a level at your own pace. If you could build and race different contraptions than those in this game, what would they be? If you could change any one thing about this game, what would it be? What do you wish the game had? What do you wish the game could do differently? This is a game by Chris Hernandez, that came out of his own imagination, as he had played a lot of puzzle games, and wanted to make one in his c9d1549cdd

Modern Suburbs is a mapping fantasy with minimalistic elements. The game contains a large amount of buildings, cars, and trucks for you to use. This is the only mod that contains buildings that are applicable to the game. A small amount of enchantments, spells and minions are also included, but it's not important for the gameplay. Other than that, you can use any sort of vanilla DLC that you bought. Mod Features: - 9 map panels, each panel has it's own ground texture - Over 160 new map building assets (more than 57000 new ground textures for the entire city) - New Warps: Old Town, New River, Desert - New Maps: Desert Town, Town of the Dead (A deserted, zombie apocalypse version of town), and Two Ocean City - New Decal Options: 18 new decal options, 6 for Modern Towns and 12 for dungeons - New Vehicles: 6 new vehicles in the game - New Gadgets: 3 new gadgets for the wizards and 4 new gadgets for the mystics - New Magic Items: 5 new magic items, 3 for the Wizards and 2 for the Mystics - New Adepts: 2 New Adepts you can download the unprocessed version of this mod from the WIKI and the download link from the author of this mod is Jay Wijesinghe. ***** for any problems: mods run on 1.12, the author does not know if it will work with the latest version, Moderators: Omar00 Posted on 2015-05-07 20:41:29 plz send me the latest versions u've done(case when u add new maps u don't delete the old ones), i'm trying to run out the current one but it's too difficult too change all the files, would be glad u could help me install them, Posted on 2015-05-11 00:52:54 Omar00 Posted on 2015-05-11 02:07:37 k, found the old versions, but thanks for the info! Mines Targets Alarming Level Of Dilution Samuel R. Foote-Mason Abandoned mines have become a hot topic on the West Coast. Recent proposals for disposal of radioactive mine wastes have set off alarm bells. In a recent meeting, attended by government officials, academics, lawyers, journalists, and West Coast residents, opponents of the proposals made statements claiming that the radioactive mine wastes could enter the ocean. From the Samoya Mine located near the Santa Barbara coast, to a future site near Los Angeles, radioactive mercury and other waste materials are kept in enclosures and minimally shielded, at a low level. However, when the concrete block enclosures are breached, they become ineffective. These dangers were well documented by the Coalition on the Environment and People in a complaint to the Federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission (henceforth FERCA) in 1995. The organization petitioned FERCA after their attempt to stop shipment of waste to the Santa Barbara Mining Company in Brazil was foiled, and also claimed from an official statement that the shipment was approved and ongoing, in violation of law and in the interest of sending dangerous materials to China. These concerns are further fueled by the recent events after the failure of the Mountain Pass Landfill in San Luis Obispo County, California. The lack of understanding of the function of radioactive waste in the ocean can result in costly and potentially hazardous dispersal of toxic wastes along the West Coast. It is also important for people to understand that radioactive waste, historically contains little or no radioactivity. However, the levels of radioactivity in the surrounding soil or water could become elevated if a site is breached. When material is in high levels in a containment vault, things like lead, glass, and iron are not readily able to dissipate radiation and thus create a source of trapped radiation. Once a breach in a vaults occurs, radiometric release could increase and materials slowly build up in the surrounding soil, or alter the ocean in a similar fashion. The degree to which an operator might want to diminish this risk can vary, depending on what radiometric release is expected. Vault Construction All abandoned mines can experience some degree of dilution. Some are abandoned due to accidents and some are simply poorly controlled operations. Abandoned mines are typically shallow and gently sloped. This means that waste materials settle much more rapidly than in hydrothermal systems. Figure one, also shows the typical shape of an abandoned mine. Ordinarily, landfills are used to contain waste

My wife and I have both had it where we have children in one of two ways. We felt as if we did not want to force our children into our situation of having two children because it's too much work and we could easily pass that along. So, the first time we attempted, we did not have a super accurate pregnancy. We would still have two children, but there could have been problems. So, we did not try for a second time. However, we had an average to good time of it. My wife had a good time this time as well, and we both were happy. This time, we realized we would not pass down the craziness of two children, so we chose to pass on two children. We are happy that we made the good choice. This game is about a couple who are trying to have two children. They are both very excited about it. They both have very supportive parents. They want to not only find the means to have children, but also the means to have healthy babies. They decide to get a sperm donation through their doctor. The problem is, it's an open clinic, and there are no limits. This is not their only option either because if the woman is very fertile, she could use her own sperm. However, there is a chance she could be infertile, which means she is not able to use her own sperm for this. This is open, so there are no limits. This could lead to a family of three, two people and a child. It could also lead to a family of four. The normal rule is one baby, but that could be changed with this clinic. This is all a joke. However, it is a game where a couple wants to have two children. -The Story The clinic has been open for a couple of years. They are all very open to helping families who need them. They have been helping a good amount of families and are open to more. The clinic is done in a nice setting. It has a very relaxing atmosphere. The daughter of a doctor who helped with the paperwork. His wife is the receptionist of the clinic and works a couple of days a week. The wife, who is the doctor's wife is a doctor and works the rest of the time. They work together as a team, and they are a good couple. This clinic is the doctor's daughter who runs it, and she works full time.
