Reactions to rising gas prices Posted Friday, June 14, 2013 4:24 pm By Margaret Hartley, Staff writer There are mixed reactions from the Long Island community to the news that prices at the pump will likely increase in July. Some say they will pass this hike along to consumers, while others are outraged over the ever-increasing cost of gasoline. The price of a gallon of regular gas is expected to increase an average of about nine cents per week throughout the month of July, according to the AAA. This is due to the fact that prices will rise by about 13 cents per gallon from July 1 to Aug. 3, and then rise by an average of 26 cents per gallon from Aug. 3 to Oct. 31, according to the AAA. Some people are already preparing for the increase. Stephen Browne, 47, who works at a funeral home in Brentwood, said he and his wife will probably have a longer car ride to Long Island during the month of July. "I guess we will trade off time with our children a little more," he said. "Our schedule will be a little more irregular. We may not want to drive the long distance." Others say they are not going to hold back on spending because of the price of gasoline. "We are going to be using more of our money," said Cathy Miller, 24, a marketing manager at HSBC. "I don't see this as a major concern."
